enoverlab

You Can Earn
N10,000,000+
as a Product Manager
In 3 Years

(REGARDLESS OF WHATEVER YOU DO RIGHT NOW)

I am sure you are curious to know how yea?

So let's not waste any time at all.

According to Google, Product Management is one of the highest paying and In demand Tech roles in 2022.

This is simply because many companies are now Increasingly shifting their focus to creating digital products and requiring even more product managers like you to lead the development and delivery of these products and services to their customers/users.

However, in the midst of all this demand for product managers, you might be asking,

"Is Product Management worth it financially?"

Below is how much you can Earn In Naira and Dollars as a Product Manager over the next 5 years:

Year 1: N1,000,000-N2,000,000
Year 2: N2,000,000-N4,000,000
Year 3: N4,000,000-N6,000,000
Year 4: N6,000,000-N8,000,000
Year 5: N8,000,000-N10,000,000

This is a Yearly calculation.

That means, In 3 years, you would have Earned a total of N10,000,000 - a cumulation of all your salary from year 1 to year 3.

And by Year 5, your salary can take an exponential leap to N10,000,000 per year.

However, it's Not limited to these figures you can definitely earn way more depending on how impactful you are on the Job.

Now, In Dollars, How much will you Earn?

You can Earn between $50,000-$100,000 in a single year

And that's about N37,500,000-N75,000,000.

If you're Not yet sure about learning Product Management,

Can you Now see the reason why you should get started and go ALL in Now?

Good.

So if you think taking a product management training that costs N150,000 is expensive, then think again.
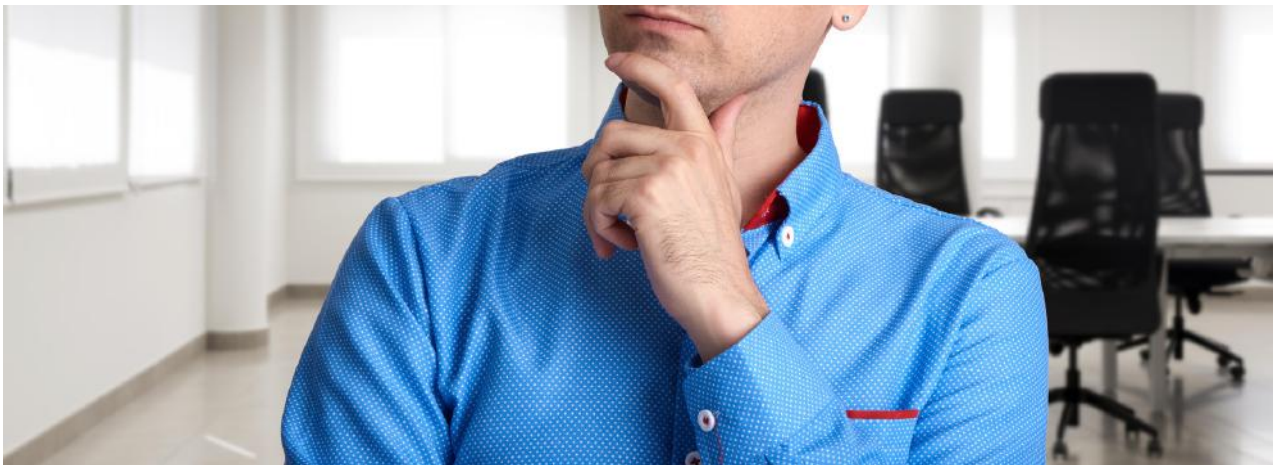

Your ROI (Return on Investment) on the N150,000 in 3 years is N9,850,000

And if you Earn In Dollars converted to Naira, your ROI in 3 years is N37,350,000

I know this might sound unbelievable, but it is true.
Just do the calculations yourself.

Again, if you think paying a training fee of N150,000 for your Product Management training is too Expensive,

Think again!

If you are asking yourself whether learning Product Management will be worth it financially,

Think again!

If you are not sure why you should learn product management,

Think again!

Guess what?

Now is the best time to start your Product Management career.

Why?

Because these companies are searching for you!

So if you are not yet a product manager or you have started learning somethings about product management, then this next section is for you

To get started in product management, there are just 3 simple steps you need to take;

- Get properly trained and mentored
- Join a supportive community of product managers
- Start to practice, practice, practice

As simple as these 3 steps are, many many people don't get it or they don't go through it correctly or they do it wrongly.

To prevent you from going through ALL the stress of having to figure it out by yourself - wasting time, energy and money with trial and error hoping one or two things would work, all you need is a system that guides you through the 3 simple steps easily.

This is where Enoverlab comes in for you, we have created a structured system to help anyone regardless of their background to go through this 3 steps easily;

1. We have a structured training and mentorship program
2. There is a supportive community of product managers here for you
3. We also have a 7 weeks Internship program to help you get real-life work experience

All you need to do is plug into our system and start to do your own part; which is, learn the skills well, be engaged in the community activities and practice, practice, practice.

There is no way you won't kickoff your product manager career within the next 4 months of doing this and set yourself up for financial bliss in the coming years.

To plug into Enoverlab system, simply call 09063124595 or visit enoverlab.com/programs

Don't forget to share this with a friend or two as well.

We are rooting for you!

Cheers!